When You Fly High
You Don't See Much,
Traveler Discovers

Ordinarily this column prides itself on being written in hope and pretty much in line with today's news, but I'll have to confess to practicing some slight-of-hand stuff the last few days.

Being due in Florida the last half of last week I wrote the column several days in advance to bridge over the interval of travel so that I could pick it up again from where ever I was without a break. I am writing this from Sarasota, where the weather isn't greatly different from what I left at home — the papers report the daily high here is 84 degrees and the low 67.

I may be a thousand miles away but it's less than five hours the way the airlines fly it from principal city to principal city.

A Delta two-engine ship took off from Shreveport at 6:25 one morning and after stops in Alexandria and Baton Rouge, reached New Orleans at 8:30. There we transferred to a National four-engine DC-6. The "flying wing" left New Orleans at 9:15 and arrived at Tampa, Fla., at 12:10 — which would be only 11:10 if we hadn't moved our watches up an hour to conform with Eastern Standard Time.

The two sections of the air trip were entirely different. Despite the dated look of the DC-3, with its steeply-sloping aisle as the ship rested on the Shreveport airport, it gave us the far more interesting trip of the two. We roared off the Shreveport runway, leveled at a comfortable altitude and cruised down Red river valley with the morning mist boiling up through the tops of the trees. Red river, shrouken by drought, was only a good-sized creek at this distance.

We let down for Alexandria, and the plane was completely filled with passengers and cargo. A short jump, and we were in Baton Rouge — and then the final lap to New Orleans.

As for the all-water trip from New Orleans to Tampa, the most impressive thing about it is the plane itself, the huge and luxurious DC-6. It takes off as rapidly as a two-engine ship but seems to climb endlessly before reaching 15,500 feet, the altitude for level flight across the Gulf of Mexico. By that time we have an air-pressure cabin, the clouds are 5,000 feet below, the water is virtually out of sight — and the only thing that keeps it from being absolutely boring is the fact the flight lasts only an hour and 55 minutes.

Less than five hours ago we were in Shreveport, now in Tampa, the big city of Florida's west coast — a lightning change of scenery, but just a milk-run to that small army of pilots and stewardesses who make it day after day. And that the airlines say about record-breaking business must be true. When I first inquired about passage the New Orleans-Tampa leg was sold out three days in advance.

Adenauer Calls for Russia to Join in Peace

BONN, Germany (UP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany today urged Russia to join in a Big Four peace conference.

He also offered security guarantees to the Soviets in an apparent attempt to quiet Russian fears of resurgent German militarism, and he pledged his government to end all peaceful means possible to use cold war in Europe.

Adenauer suggested that the European army plan might become the springboard for a world-wide disarmament program.

In a state of the nation address to the lower house (bundesstag) of parliament, the 77-year-old chancellor renewed his suggestion that the European Defense Community offer the Soviet union a non-aggression pact.

That, Adenauer said, is what would be required to convince the Kremlin of the West's peaceful intention.

"The EDC treaty," Adenauer said, "makes aggressive war impossible, not only among the signatories, but also against a third state. It could become the point of departure for a system of general disarmament such as that suggested by President Eisenhower in his speech on April 16, 1953."

Careful..
these are the wicked hours
Between 4 and 7:30 p.m. America drives home from work. Tired, irritable, impatient — and traffic accidents show it. Twice as many traffic accidents occur then as in any other period of the day. So be extra cautious — driving, walking.

Sweden Warns Red Tactics May Cause 'Breakup'

By FRANK JORDAN

PANMUNJOM, Korea, (UP) — Sweden warned today it was "highly possible" that the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission would "break up" if the Communists insisted on using force again to repatriate North Korean prisoners.

Jan Stenstrom, a Swedish delegate to the commission, issued the warning after Czechoslovakia and Poland announced their boycott of the NNRC.

The Communist bloc representatives stalked angrily out of a commission meeting because of the group's refusal to force 7,600 North Koreans to attend interviews with "persuaders." The walkout indefinitely delayed the explanations to anti-Communist prisoners.

Stenstrom said his government was opposed to any use of force and warned that Red insistence on it would threaten to wreck the whole operation.

"The risk of the commission is much greater than before," Stenstrom said. "It is highly possible the commission will break up if we cannot get the North Korean prisoners to go to the explanations."

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya of India, chairman of the commission, was believed to be in close contact with the boycotting Polish and Czech delegations. Informed sources said Thimayya did not call a meeting of the commission this morning because he knew the Reds would not attend.

The Czech and Polish "neutrals" failed to show up for the scheduled 10 a. m. (8 p. m. EST Monday) meeting of the commission, forcing cancellation of the conference and the day's prisoner interviews.

October Heat Stretches Across U. S.

By United Press

A record-breaking October "heat wave" stretched from the plains states to the Atlantic seaboard today.

Temperatures topping 80 have burned up heat records for this time of year in the Midwest, increased drought conditions, and added to fire danger.

Indianapolis recorded an 84 at noon yesterday one degree more than the previous high for the date, set in 1930.

Today was expected to get as hot, if not hotter.

An 81-degree reading at Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., eclipsed the all-time high yesterday by three degrees.

Except for light showers last week in scattered sections of the state, Minnesota hasn't had a hard rain for nearly a month.

Illinois will lose some of its pasture land if the temperatures keep high and the rain doesn't fall, experts predict.

Rainfall through September is 6.65 inches below the 30-year state average.

A few light showers fell in the northeast part of the country today, and a shower area kept west of the Rockies, but the only significant area of rain was in the southern Rocky Mountain states. More than one-half inch fell in New Mexico during a 24-hour period.

In contrast to the area to the east, west of the Rockies it was cooler today.

All Women Have a Certain Way With Words But Peg Lynch Is Making Them Pay Very Well

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (UP) — All women have a way with words, but Peg Lynch has a way of making them pay.

One of the brightest girls in the Big Town, she has turned out so much prose her output makes the biggest dictionary look like a pocket magazine.

"Some day I'd like to write a book," she said, and she really put her mind to it, well — it probably wouldn't take her more than a week.

We sat down and figured out how many words she had authored in her career as a radio and television writer. The total was roughly 11,000,000 — the equivalent of 118 books of 100,000 words each.

"But I still want to write a real book, or a good Broadway play," she said wistfully. "If I ever can find the time."

Time is what Peg has the least of. She both writes and plays the leading role in "Ethel and Albert,"

Gideons Pass Out 1,500 Testaments in Local Schools

Some 1,500 Testaments and 50 Bibles were distributed in Hope, Washington and Spring Hill Schools yesterday by the Gideons.

Texarkana members of the organization which distributed the Testaments were T.E. Wreyford, Paul Morris, Harvey Watson, Rufus Wellborn, Harry Ragland, Hal Murphy and Jane Timberland.

Sunday, October 25, Gideons from Little Rock and Texarkana will speak at the First Baptist Church, First Methodist, Assembly of God, First Christian, Presbyterian and Gospel Tabernacle of Hope, and the Presbyterian Church of Washington.

Sunday afternoon Bibles will be placed in Hotel Barlow, Snyder, Henry Davis, Hope Plaza, Arkana and Tarpley Courts.

Gideons is a Christian business men's organization which was founded in 1899. Since 1906 they have placed Bibles in Hotels, Motels, airplanes and steamships. They have given over 15,000,000 copies of the New Testament to men and women in the Armed Forces and in the past few years have given Testaments to school children. Sunday's speakers will give a report on the organization's work.

A radio and TV marital comedy she has kept going for nine years. She spends Sunday and Monday writing it, and the rest of the week endlessly rehearsing and polishing it. Her average day begins at 3 a. m., and may go until nearly midnight. She never has a full day off.

"I have to wash my own hair because I don't have time to go to a beauty parlor," she said. "I even have to have someone else buy my clothes for me — and no woman likes that — because I can't take the time off to go shopping."

Peg is a slender, friendly brunette who looks just like the kind of a wife the average guy would like to come home to, which explains her charm as an actress.

She also likes to write about typical married life situations. She recalls from her Midwest days.

She and the late Thomas A. Edison have one thing in common.

Policeman in Kidnap Case Is Suffering Nervous Breakdown, Can't Testify at Inquiry

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The police officer who arrested the killer of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease, central figure in a closed-door inquiry into police handling of the case, was reported today to be suffering from a nervous breakdown.

Dr. Charles M. Bauman, who made the announcement, said it would be at least several days before Police Lt. Louis Shoulders can be questioned in the investigation.

The inquiry, which began yesterday before Police Chief Jeremiah Connel, stemmed from reports the FBI has found discrepancies in police accounts of the arrest. It centers around the handling by police of two suitcases in which nearly half of the $600,000 ransom payment was recovered.

Dr. Bauman said he doesn't know when Shoulders will be in a condition to permit questioning. "It's not going to be today or tomorrow," the physician said.

Patrolman Elmer Dolan, Shoulders' partner in the arrest two weeks ago of Carl Austin Hall, was questioned periodically for 10 hours yesterday in the police chief's office and then was returned to duty.

Lt. Shoulders is under treatment at his home.

But Chief Connel said Shoulders will be questioned "as soon as his doctor says it will be all right to do so."

Dolan one of three witnesses questioned yesterday, was asked by reporters about his session with his superiors but he said he had been instructed "not to talk."

Shoulders, whose ailment was attributed by the physician to the officer's work on the case, withheld from newsmen a full explanation of the reported discrepancies, but said:

"I can explain to the proper authorities ever move I made."

The arrest of Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady followed a tip to Shoulders by Taxi Driver John Hager that Hall was armed and spending money on a big scale.

"Connell said Hager will be questioned today 'if we are able to reach him.'"

Officers also made a half-hour examination of the rooms in the apartment hotel where Hall was arrested and the ransom money recovered.

Joseph Thornton, who has headed the FBI office here since April 1952 and in charge of the FBI investigation of the kidnapping case, said last night he will be transferred to Omaha, Neb., shortly.

Partisan Tells Why Officer Was Murdered

NOVARA, Italy (AP) — A former Italian Partisan testified today that a United States lieutenant engineered the slaying of his commanding officer "in order to be free to favor the Reds."

The Partisan, Arnaldo Migliari, took the stand at the second day of the trial of two Americans and three Italians charged with the cloak-and-dagger murder of Maj. William Holohan of New York City behind Nazi lines in northern Italy in 1944.

The Americans, former Lt. Aldo Jacardi of Pittsburgh, Pa., and former Sgt. Carl Lo Dolce of Rochester, N. Y., are being tried in absentia. U. S. courts ruled they could not be extradited for prosecution in Italy.

Migliari and two other wartime Partisans, Giuseppe Mannini and Guattieri Tozzini, are on trial in person.

U. S. Engineer Held by Russia, Austrian Claims

VIENNA, Austria (UP) — An Austrian freed from long Russian captivity added the name of a California engineer today to the list of Americans reported held in Soviet prisons.

He identified the American as Charles Brown-Clifford, about 35. The Austrian said he met Brown-Clifford at Verkhne-Uralsk prison some 60 miles north of the Russian city of Magnitogorsk.

The informant, one of 633 Austrians released by the Russians last week, reported Brown-Clifford told him he was arrested in Romania in 1945 and sentenced to 25 years for "espionage." The American did not give his home town, the Austrian said.

Thornton, a veteran of 19 years in the Austrian resistance, told last week of meeting Americans Homer H. Cox and Leland Towers at a camp northeast of Moscow.

Netherlands prisoners who arrived in Berlin today after being freed by the Russians quoted Cox and Towers as saying they were kidnapped.

The Netherlands said they saw both men in the Sherbikov prison camp near Moscow one week ago.

Cox, 33, an army private from Kibbinn, disappeared in Berlin Sept. 2, 1949. Towers, of San Francisco, disappeared in Finland in 1951.

"A Negro took me under the bridge and cut my throat,"

Her murder came after a series of unsolved rapes of white women by a naked Negro with a knife, and turned whole sections of the city into armed camps. Police patrols were doubled and tripled.

Authorities have questioned more than 200 suspects, but have not found Mrs. Parker's murderer.

Mrs. Daniels told police one leg had been amputated and the other is paralyzed because of injuries received in an automobile accident. A friend, Mrs. Lucille Adams, took her to the hospital.

Pair Held in $110,000 Holdup

DALLAS, Tex., (UP) — Two Dallas men who admitted taking part in the $110,000 robbery of a Wheeling, W. Va., physician's home, changed their minds about waiving extradition, and authorities said today the pair refused to be taken after the papers were drawn.

The two men, Harry W. Ward, 43, and Jimmy Fugitt, 34, changed their minds soon after a woman window washer was arrested by a Wheeling authorities, and the FBI announced it was checking to see if stolen property was transported across state lines.

Police recovered more than $95,000 of the loot taken a week ago from the home of Dr. W. P. Sammons. It represented his life savings over a 33-year period.

Army units, doctors and ambulances were sent to the scene as soon as the crash was reported yesterday. But the country is so rugged that none of the ambulances had returned by 9 a. m. (EST) today.

Woman Is Attacked in Dallas

DALLAS, Tex., (UP) — A tall Negro man tried to attack a crippled white woman last night but she beat him off with her crutch, then fainted, police reported today.

The woman, Mrs. Madlyn Daniels, 36, revived a few moments later and was taken hysterical to a hospital, where she was given oxygen.

The attack on Mrs. Daniels came only 10 days after Mrs. H. C. Parker, 29, was raped and murdered under a dark bridge. Before she died, Mrs. Parker said:

"A Negro took me under the bridge and cut my throat,"

$100 Million Loan Banned to Israeli

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State Dulles disclosed today the United States has suspended a $100 million dollar aid program for Israel because he believes the Israeli government is defying a United Nations ruling.

Dulles said the Eisenhower administration has decided to defer any aid allocations to Israel until it abides by a U. N. ruling. "It must stop trying to divert waters from the River Jordan along the Syrian frontier."

At a news conference, Dulles said the United States believes Israel should respect a decision, ordering a halt to this project, made by Gen. Vagan Ben-Gurion, chief of the U. N. Truce Supervision group along the Palestine frontier.

The United States is continuing to go forward with similar amount of technical aid funds to Israel, he said. But, no allocation of the larger grant funds, appropriated by Congress for the entire Middle East, has been made.

Estimated the amount loaned for Israel was about 100 million dollars. Allocation for Arab governments from foreign aid funds he indicated, are continuing to go forward. He noted the United States used part of this money for emergency aid to Iran a few months ago.

Boyle

Boyle is supposed to have said that "Gentle is two per cent inspiration and 98 per cent perspiration." Boyle's success formula boils down to a simple four-letter word: action. Anybody who reads it and it comes out — "W-O-R-K."

Boyle was born in Lincoln, Neb. Her dad died when she was an infant. She was raised in Lincoln, Neb., to the state university. After working for the Mayo Clinic, she landed a job with a small Minnesota radio station.

Boyle wrote 250 spot commercial announcements a week, she recalled. "And I also turned out a daily half-hour woman's show, a weekly little theater show, a 15-minute radio news program, three 10-minute plays and two 6-minute sketches a week."

The pay was $70 a month — and the problem was trying to find time to sleep. She still has the same problem, but the pay is better.

"I wouldn't trade that experience for a million dollars," she said. "Anybody who wants to do anything in radio or TV can't beat the training you get in a small town, where you have to learn to do everything."

Boyle has been feeling the cards are stacked against a woman in the television world.

"Except on the business side," she added, smiling. "I've never managed to learn to add or subtract well."

It rather amazes her that most people think of writing as easy, and acting as difficult.

"Writing is work to me — the acting is fun," she said. "People look on writing as something they could do as well as you or better, if they just weren't so busy. Everybody feels he could have been a writer if life hadn't sidetracked him into doing something more important."

Boyle glanced down at the paper with figures telling her output of 11,000,000 words.

"It's appalling," she said, grimacing ruefully. "Plain appalling. Television is a monster. It's like a monster. It just eats your mind alive."

But it shows no signs of wearing down Boyle.

25,000 U. S. Workers Won't Pay Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William O'Dwyer said today "an estimated 25,000 government employees are refusing to pay their income taxes" and yet are safe from prosecution.

But the government is powerless to collect the tax because a federal law prohibits the salaries of government employees from being attached.

Williams said the amount of taxes thus escaping collection might run into millions of dollars.

Most federal employees, like others, are subject to the federal withholding tax under which most of a worker's income taxes are paid on a monthly basis. But in some cases the withholding tax is not sufficient to cover all income taxes.

Most federal employees, like others, are subject to the federal withholding tax under which most of a worker's income taxes are paid on a monthly basis. But in some cases the withholding tax is not sufficient to cover all income taxes.

Williams said he will ask Congress to pass a law which would authorize the seizure of federal workers' contributions to the Civil Service retirement fund and any interest earned by these contributions as one means to collect the tax, and also would make the seizure of taxes and penalties.

Williams said he understands the necessity of provision in our laws.

DOROTHY DIX

Adolescent Problem

Dear Miss Dix: I am a business woman, the mother of a 14-year-old daughter and 10-year-old son. My children are cared for by my sister who lives with me. My problems concern my daughter.

All summer she went with a boy two years her senior. They went to movies, for sodas, and walks. The boy refuses to work and has a widowed mother. I don't like his manners, and in brief, he annoys me. Every morning they had long telephone conversations, tying up the line when I wanted to reach my home. My daughter thinks we ought to give her more liberties. For instance, her girl friend can stay out until 10 o'clock and Margie can not. She cheerfully helps at home—does beds, irons her clothes and washes dishes. Am I being unreasonable? I let her have a birthday party at Christmas, but never again. All the children think about is kissing and lights out.

MRS.G.

Typical Teen-Ager
Answer: Perhaps you're unreasonable, but I do feel you lack understanding of adolescents. Nothing your Margie does, as described in your letter, is cause for concern. Her actions are typical of a 14-year-old, and her co-operation with household tasks certainly does not indicate a rebellious teen-ager. Friendships at this age are apt to be unstable, with the best friend of today becoming one will scarcely speak to in a week. Your position as a business mother apparently leads you to seek near-perfection in your child, and may also make you impatient with her.

Since she is inclined to go with a group, she'll undoubtedly have a succession of boy friends and dates. Don't worry too much about the boy she's been seeing; his difficulties are mostly adolescent, too.

She should be in every evening at the time set (except for special occasions), and her week-end dating should be limited. As for parties, don't refuse arbitrarily to have another, but encourage the young people to dance, rather than indulge in games.

Point out the fact that kissing games are popular with the pre-teen group and that young people in their teens, should be preparing for the social life of the future by becoming accomplished dancers, bowlers, etc. Above all don't scold the child too much. An occasional heart-to-heart talk will accomplish more than constant nagging.

Dear Miss Dix: My sister had to get married when she was 16. Now, my father won't let me even go with a boy although I'm almost 14. I'm sure the reason is that he still holds a grudge against my sister.

M.W.

Rules in Marriage of Incompetent

LITTLE ROCK, AR — The marriage of a mentally incompetent person may be set aside only during that person's lifetime, the Arkansas Supreme Court ruled today.

Mrs. Kitty Vance filed suit in Hot Spring County Chancery Court to void the marriage of her dead mother, Indiana Hinch, to Harold Hinch and prevent Hinch from receiving any part of Mrs. Hinch's property.

Mrs. Vance contended that Mrs. Hinch was mentally incompetent at the time of the marriage, which took place sometime before her death at the age of 64.

The Chancery Court refused to disturb the marriage, holding that it could not be attacked after death. The Supreme Court agreed in this view.

The Court refused to reduce $100 a month payments being made by Lewis W. Lively to his divorced wife, Darline Lively, for support of their 8-year-old son.

The holding reversed on this point the Union Chancery Court which had ordered the payments cut to $65.

Cash Awards to Inventors Proposed

WASHINGTON, DC — Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) has announced plans to hold public hearings next month on proposal to give cash awards to inventors whose ideas aid national defense.

The senator's office said yesterday he will preside at the hearings before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee which he heads.

REAL BUTTERFLIES
REDONDO BEACH, Calif. (UP) — When Municipal Judge John Shider rushed his 18-month-old daughter to a physician and declared she had butterflies in her tummy he wasn't kidding.

The child got into her father's collection of mounted butterflies and ate most of the gaily colored specimens.

and says she will marry him. Do you think she can be happy?

WORRIED MOM
Answer: No one can predict the success or failure of a marriage. All we can do is measure the possibilities and probabilities. The probability of a successful marriage between your daughter and her soldier are slim indeed. At 20 opposite sex. Now she has fallen in love with a 20-year-old soldier mother than a wife.

Didn't Mean to Ring But He Did

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It's a cinch Leroy Broomfield didn't mean to ring the doorbell. But he did.

When John R. Peters, dressed in pajamas, opened the door he found Broomfield on all fours fumbling in the dark with the lock.

Broomfield scrambled to his feet and ran — right through a large plate glass window on the sunporch.

Peters followed him out the window. Broomfield snatched into a wire fence. Peters snatched into him.

"Come on, Myrt, get out here and help," cried Peters.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters got Broomfield down, sat on him and yelled until a constable came.

In county jail, the 32-year-old Broomfield nursed scratches and bruises and faced charges of breaking and entering and assault with intent to wound.

CAT'S IRE

LONDON (UP) — An impatient resident of No. 10 Downing street paced back and forth at the door recently waiting for Prime Minister Winston Churchill to finish his talk with U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

When Dulles left Churchill's residence, the prime minister's pet cat cast a scornful glance at Dulles and dashed inside through the open door.

Italy Charges Two Americans With Murder

By ELVEZIO DIAMONDI

NOVARA, Italy (UPI) — Italy formally charged two former U.S. intelligence agents today with murdering their commanding officer while on a secret mission behind the lines in Italy in 1944.

The Novara court of Assizes read the charges against former Lt. Aldo Teardi, of Pittsburgh, Penn., and Sgt. Carl G. Lodolce of Rochester, N. Y., in the slaying of Maj. William V. Holohan, of New York.

The court rejected pleas that it was not authorized to try the two U. S. citizens, who served under Holohan in the cloak-and-dagger Office of Strategic Services.

Teardi and Lodolce were on trial in absentia along with three former Italian partisans. The Italians are accused of helping the Americans kill Holohan and dump his body into a lake.

Both Teardi and Lodolce are in the United States and will not be forced to serve any sentence which may be imposed on them. They face a maximum sentence of the imprisonment if convicted.

The trial began this morning before a capacity crowd of 200 spectators and newsmen who stood in a sparsely furnished room in the old red-brick courthouse of this town near Milan.

One of the spectators was John A. Bihara, of Detroit, Mich., of the Detroit "freedom" committee. Bihara said he knew both American defendants and came here for the trial while vacationing in Italy.

The three Italian partisans — Giuliano Pozzani, Giuseppe Mancini, and Amalia Migliari — were brought in the courtroom under a heavy carabinieri (federal police) escort. They were placed in the defendants' traditional iron "cage" behind bars.

Italian lawyers assigned by the court to represent the absent Americans said the tribunal had no power to rule on the acts of foreign military men in an occupied country.

Attorney Pietro Chiovetta read a letter from Teardi in which the former OSS man said:

"The Italian government has no jurisdiction because it cannot judge soldiers of an invading army. This is what American courts established in a ruling rejecting a demand for the extradition of Lodolce. You must sustain this principle with the greatest energy."

Public Prosecutor Salvatore Morino said the Italian supreme court, by recognizing the competence of the Novara court, automatically gave it jurisdiction over the case.

It is not true that immunity for soldiers has no limits," the prosecutor said. "Otherwise, this would mean no punishment to crime."

The defendants were accused of "aggravated murder," armed robbery of $5,000 from Holohan, and attempted suppression of the body by throwing it into Lake Orta.

The charge alleged that Holohan was killed by the combined action of poison and two pistol shots in the head.

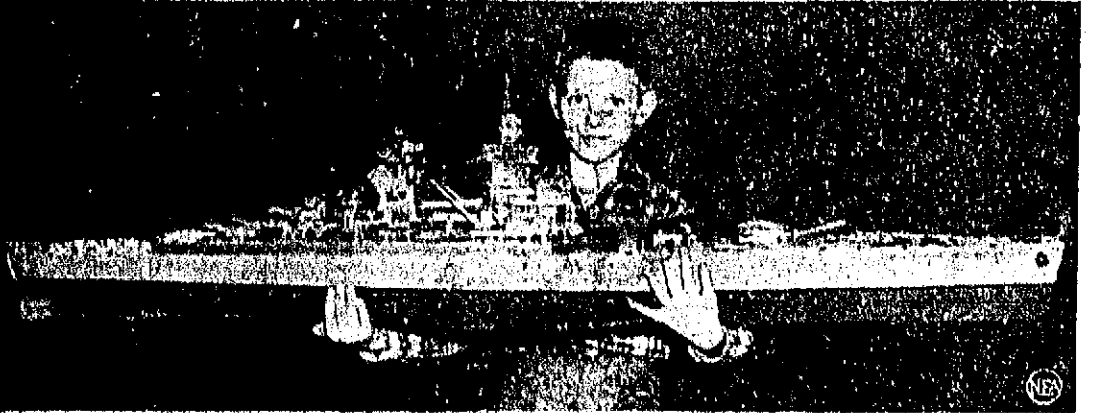

Teardi and Lodolce have persistently denied the charges as "fantasy."

WHAT'S YOUR GRIEF, BUDDY?—Attorney C. M. Walz, of San Diego, Cal., isn't quoting "The Raven" to this cormorant, and he's positive his practice isn't going to the birds. As he was working over his papers the bird walked into his office and jumped onto his desk. Since the bird wasn't talking, and he didn't need any additional clients, Walz headed the bird in the direction of the San Diego Zoo.

EMPTY LOT, BUT SOUL IS FULL—Members of the St. Andrews Presbyterian Church in San Diego, Calif., aren't waiting for their church to be erected before they hold their services. They met on the proposed site, the church was marked off in chalk and the worshippers marched in through the "door." The Rev. George Lakin leads the singing.

MAN-SIZE JOB—Nine-year-old Alvin Marseille takes on a heavy job, holding the French battleship "Marseille" in his arms, even though it's only a model of the famed man-of-war. He was helping move models of scientific toys to Paris for an exhibit.

Agreement in 1952 Never Very Definite

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the United States and the United Nations had made the Chinese say precisely what they meant in 1952, there might be no wrangling now over starting the Korean peace conference.

That's a big "if," of course. And the Chinese, if it suited their purpose, still could have wrecked the conference one way or another before or after it started, no matter what they said in 1952.

The conference was to have opened by Oct. 28, three months after the truce began July 28. The three months have been spent trying to agree on who should take part in the conference.

On Monday an American representative will sit down with the Chinese at Panmunjom to talk about it some more.

The United Nations and the Communists began truce talks in the summer of 1951. Before the shooting could stop, both sides wanted a number of armistice points agreed to.

For instance: agreement on a demilitarized zone between the two armies whether truce began.

It took the U. N. and the Communists only a few months to agree on all points except one.

That one, the major obstacle, was repatriation of prisoners. The Reds wanted all prisoners returned, forcibly if necessary. The United Nations insisted that no prisoner should be returned against his will. The U. N. won its point.

In February, 1952, the U. N. and the Communists had agreed on 61 paragraphs in the truce agreement. It took them from then until the summer of 1953 to agree on voluntary repatriation of prisoners.

But it's paragraph No. 60 in the truce terms — agreed to Feb. 10, 1952, or 17 months before the agreement prisoners — which is causing all the trouble about a peace conference now, a said.

"In order to insure a peaceful settlement of the Korean question, the military commanders of both sides hereby recommend to their governments of the countries concerned that within three months after an armistice is signed, and neutral only in the sense that he becomes effective, a political conference at a higher level of both sides be held by representatives appointed respectively to settle the question of the withdrawal of all foreign belligerents but also neutral na-

NO STRINGS ATTACHED—There are no wires attached to the earphones worn by Doreen Baratt, as she has her hair done by Douglas Scott in a London salon, but she's listening to a radio program through the instrument. The earphones reproduce sound by magnetic waves from any radio by means of wires running around the room. The contraption weighs less than two ounces, is non-electrical and non-battery. It is designed for use in hospitals, beauty salons and other places where private listening is desired.

forces from Korea, a peaceful settlement of the Korean question, Indonesia, Burma and Pakistan can take part in the conference.

But what does "both sides" mean? The United States insists it means only the nations which took part in the fighting: Red China and North Korea on one side; the United States, 10 other United Nations — they want Russia, India, "both sides" meant.

The State Department says the minutes of the truce talks prove this; that the Chinese have reversed themselves; that in 1952 they said they wanted no neutrals to take part in the conference; and that paragraph No. 60 was worded the way it is because the Chinese wanted it that way to keep out the neutrals.

Yesterday Red China's Premier and Foreign Minister, Chou En-lai, denied China ever held neutrals should be excluded. But paragraph no. 60 so vague in other ways the Chinese could still twist it to that.

Believe Drouth About Over, But to Return

WASHINGTON (AP) — T. W. U. S. Weather Bureau experts said today they think the drought affecting the central and eastern United States is about over—but that it may return.

Jerome Namias, chief of extended forecasts, and Glenn W. Brier, chief of meteorological statistics, gave their views in a joint, copyrighted interview with the magazine, U. S. News and World Report. Their replies to questions were not individually identified.

"We think," they said, "that conditions from now on will favor a gradual alleviation of the dry weather over central and eastern portions of the country."

"We think it will get started within the next 30 days, but we can't say whether this change will return to a dry condition later on."

They were asked whether the current drought means that the country is in for "a cycle of drought" similar to that of the early 1930s, and gave this reply:

"Well, we've been having drought in some areas for several years and it does look like a drought condition is building up. It is hard to call what is happening a cycle, however."

Hospital Robbers Are Captured

KANKAKEE, Ill. (UP) — Arrest of a truck driver who was selling hams and butter at bargain prices has uncovered a ring which robbed the Kankakee State Hospital of $250,000 worth of supplies this year, police said today.

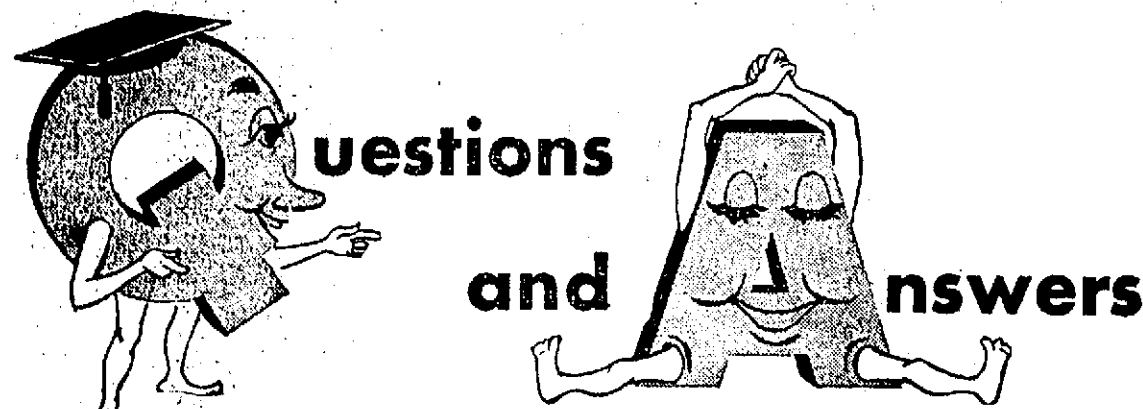

Ferdinand Foster, a 64-year-old supply truck driver arrested yesterday, has admitted stealing clothes and food from the hospital for nine years, police said.

Dr. Otto L. Bettag, director of the Illinois public welfare department, said at least 16 other persons may be involved in the thefts. He estimated that $250,000 worth of supplies have been stolen this year alone.

McCarthy to Visit Army Laboratories

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today he will visit the Army's Ft. Monmouth, N. J., laboratories tomorrow in his investigation of an alleged radar spy ring.

The senator said. Secretary of the Army Steven M. Yantis will accompany him to lay groundwork for more closed door hearings in which McCarthy's Senate investigations subcommittee is studying report of security leaks at the fort.

He said he plans another closed hearing Thursday, at either Ft. Monmouth or New York City.

Meanwhile, McCarthy announced a special investigator of the subcommittee is in Europe with a signal corps officer to interview possible key witnesses who may shed more light on the possible theft of U.S. radar secrets.

He said James J. Sullivan, the investigator, plans interviews today with a German scientist who is reported to have said he saw a motion picture film of U.S. atomic installations that may have been pilfered by spies, and who contends the Russians have a radar installation which may have been copied from supposedly secret U. S. plans.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — A U. S. Navy plane crash-landed in the stormy North Atlantic shortly after takeoff from Keflavik Airport here yesterday and rescuers abandoned all hope of finding the crew alive.

The plane had radioed to Keflavik that it was down in the sea with engine trouble south of the Vestmanna Islands.
